

The Music of Mourning

Music takes me calmly
to its lair, rehearses dark emotions, whether those of majesty or scents of love and ashes where we grieve together.

Phrases made from grief thrive in peace here. So, too, when the present fails me music lends relief.
Music: when I hear you, you, like love, invade me.